CITIZENS BACK PLAN TO SELL OLD CITY HALL

Unanimity, However, Is Lacking In Proposal to Erect Building In Center of Square—15 Picked at Random Give Interviews

If the sentiment disclosed by inquiry among 15 prominent citizens of Lima, picked at random, can be taken as indicative of the general state of mind of the public concerning the proposition of selling the old city hall building in W. High-st at a good price, there is no question but that the suggestion made by the city heads is a popular one.

While among the men interviewed by The Lima News not one dissenting note was disclosed in the matter of the sale of the old structure and taking such steps as would tend to get all city administrative offices under one roof, there is not unanimous enthusiasm over the question of a building in the public square.

Inquiry made reveals the fact that the suggestion made by the city commission in The Lima News of Sunday has been generally read by people of this city and that it has been considered at some length in most cases. The sentiment appears to be that since Lima is a growing city and that improvement is the order of the hour, steps should be taken by the municipality to keep step with private enterprise.

SENTIMENT SOUGHT The commission is desirous of getting its fingers on the public pulse, to determine the manner in which the proposition is taken, whether favorably or unfavorably. Inquiry begun by The News indicates the move is a popular one and that there will be little or no objection made to a plan of disposing of the present old ramshackle structure that is referred to as "City Hall."

Another note which enters the well-ventilated sentiment in favor of the sale of the W. High-st property, is that the city should make way for private enterprises to erect a more modern structure on the valuable frontage. It is felt that at least the city should afford the opportunity for the revamping of the property to provide more adequate and better quarters for expanding business and for the city's general betterment. This is gathered from interviews accorded.

These questions were propounded to more than a dozen men who are interested in the city's progress. What is your opinion of the proposition advanced by the city commission to sell the W. High-st city building for $125,000 or more?

2. Do you favor the plan of erecting an adequate "office building" in the center of the public square, to house all city administrative offices and provide waiting rooms and comfort stations for the general public?

3. In your opinion would an office building in the center of the public square, as favored by the commission, add to or detract from the appearance of the public place and increase or decrease the value of adjacent property?

Some of the suggestions made in connection with approval of the plan are found to be untenable, under existing conditions, but there is made apparent a desire on the part of most everyone interviewed that a move of some sort along the lines proposed should be taken.

MANY APPROVE PLAN Results of interviews given The Lima News on the subject are as follows: CAPT. W. B. WILCOX, city fireman and member of board of health: "It's a good thing. I believe a safe plan for years. It would add to the appearance of the public square. If possible, I believe that the county should sell the old court-house property and unite with the city in the erection of a city-county building."

JOHN H. ALGIRE, of the Algire Auto Supply Co., 124 S. Elizabeth-st at the right of the city to this occupied public square can be established, it would be a capital move. There is where the city building should be located. It would add greatly to the appearance of the center of the business activities of the city, unite all offices and provide an ideal opportunity for disposing of the vexatious question of a street railway transfer waiting a street and the installation of public comfort stations. I am heartily in favor of the whole proposition."

RALPH W. JUSTIN, contractor and president of school board: "I am opposed to the erection of a public square. I believe a safe plan for years. It would add to the appearance of the public square. If possible, I believe that the county should sell the old court-house property and unite with the city in the erection of a city-county building."

C. E. RECHLER, realtor: "The public square is the logical place for a city building. I believe a safe plan for years. It would add to the appearance of the public square. If possible, I believe that the county should sell the old court-house property and unite with the city in the erection of a city-county building."

J. H. GORKE, attorney: "Such a plan would be a safe and sound move. It would add to the appearance of the public square. If possible, I believe that the county should sell the old court-house property and unite with the city in the erection of a city-county building."

FAMILY OF SIX IS ASPHYXIATED

Gas Escaping From Broken Main Kills Pennsylvanians

DOZEN PERSONS OVERCOME

Father and Four Children Burn to Death

PITTMAN, N. J. — (Associated Press) — A family of six were asphyxiated and a dozen other persons were overcome early today by gas escaping from a broken main in this city.

The dead are P. Pucci, a shoemaker, his wife and four children ranging in ages from 4 to 20 years. Of those overcome the most critical is Daniel S. Blackman, a broker, with an office in Philadelphia.

From the position of the bodies it was evident to the police that some members of the Pucci family had made efforts to reach fresh air.

FIVE BURN TO DEATH INDIANA, Pa. — (Associated Press) — Andrew Polacka, and four of his children were burned to death in a fire which destroyed their home in a remote part of Indiana-co yesterday. Mrs. Polacka, who was badly burned was brought to a hospital here where, a few hours later, she became the mother of a little daughter. Physicians said both would live.

Polacka, who had been a steel worker in the mills of Johnstown, bought a little farm six months ago and moved there with his family. Neighbors in the vicinity yesterday discovered the house was on fire and when they reached the place they found that the father and children were cut off from escape by the flames.

Mrs. Polacka was found on the first floor badly hurt. She was taken to a nearby house and last night brought to the hospital here. She was unable to throw any light on the cause of the tragedy.

"ATOP OF WORLD IN GERMANY"

This Is Expression of Returned Yanks, Facing Radical Change

NEW YORK — (Associated Press) — Forty-five of the 152 doughboys returned from Cologne on the transport St. Albion yesterday turned their attention today to the future. For these 45 are married, most of them to German brides, and soon are to be discharged from the service of Uncle Sam. And their big problem is a return to normalcy, and sudden descent to the American dollar standard after their months on the Rhine, as "mark millions."

Awaiting their discharge at Fort Hamilton, the husbands—fifteen of them are fathers as well—are making plans for a radical change in their spending habits. "Sure," said one of them, and he expressed the sentiments of his benighted buddies, "I'm glad to get back, but being a good American and all that. But we sure was sitting pretty, there in the Rhine. Nobody can say we weren't sitting pretty, no sir. We were getting paid in American dollars but we got it in marks—3,000 for a dollar. Sitting on top of the world, I'll say. But sure, I'm glad to get back. It's good to see the States again. But of course, there'll be times when I'll think of that beer at half a cent a side and a full meal for ten cents."

He pointed to his wife, a robust Irish, dark-haired and smiling. "She's a nifty dresser," he asked. "Cost six bucks. The hat, one buck. Fur coat forty dollars. Yeh, it's like that in Koblenz, and rents the same, and grub."

"But I'm glad enough to get back. I was only saying. It's good to be back. But I might as well be honest about it. There's going to be times—"

"But don't get me wrong. It's good to see the States again."

200 HELD BY POLICE CHICAGO — More than two hundred men were held in police stations today, to face victims of robberies and burglaries in Chicago during a 24 hour period. They were arrested Saturday night and last night in what was termed the first general police roundup this year.

CLARA'S NEMESIS

Mrs. Clara Uribe (above) is said to be holding Clara Phillips, "hammer murderer" in captivity in Mexico and to have offered to deliver Clara to American authorities on condition Mrs. Uribe's husband and his brother are released from jail in California. Mrs. Uribe now claims credit for the capture of Phil Alquin (below), deported from Mexico, wanted in Los Angeles on a charge of killing a detective.

CORONER IS SHOT TO DEATH

Irish Official Is Assassinated by Armed Mob

DUBLIN — (Associated Press) — Dr. Thomas O'Higgins, of Maryborough, father of Kevin O'Higgins, free state minister of home affairs, was assassinated today.

The official announcement today said: "Dr. O'Higgins, coroner of Queens-co, was shot dead by armed men last evening."

The victim is a brother-in-law of Timothy Healy, governor general of the free state. The tragedy occurred at Woodlands near Strathallyn, when a party of armed men drew up near the O'Higgins residence at 7 o'clock Sunday evening and three members of it approached the house and demanded admittance. Dr. O'Higgins replied that in consequence of a communication recently captured, he would not admit anyone. But on the plea of wanting to see the document, the raiders induced him to open the door. One of the armed men then entered, leaving his two companions on the doorstep. While the raiders inside was reading the document, Dr. O'Higgins, who was 70 years old, disarmed him, snatching away his revolver. The raider shouted to his two companions to fire. They responded with the fatal shots which crashed into the top of O'Higgins' skull, others of the raiding party also firing at him thru the windows.

CHICAGO HUSBAND HELD IN DEATH OF HIS WIFE

CHICAGO — Mrs. William Johnson, her neck broken and her body a mass of bruises, was found dead in the chicken coop in the rear of her home here yesterday.

Her husband was arrested and held for questioning after police declared the woman was murdered. Johnson said he discovered the body after waiting all night for his wife to return home.

DIES AT AGE OF 117 RICHMOND HILL, Ont. — Mrs. Susan Augusta Maxwell, Canada's oldest citizen is dead at her home today at the accredited age of 117. She was one of the few survivors of those negro people who escaped from the United States before the emancipation of the slaves. Her journey by the "underground railway" was made seventy years ago.

BRITISH FIGHTERS REINFORCED

Action Follows Second Ultimatum Issued from Angora

ALLIES AGAIN ORDERED OUT

Given Three Days to Leave Smyrna Harbor

VALETTA, Malta — (Associated Press) — It is understood the British force of destroyers in Turkish waters is being added to by an other flotilla from the Atlantic fleet, presumably the fourth, which is stated to be enroute to Malta, destined for the Dardanelles. This will bring the number of British destroyer flotillas in Near Eastern waters up to five.

CONSTANTINOPLE — (United Press) — "The allies having refused to heed an ultimatum that foreign warships over 1,000 tons leave Smyrna harbor last week, the Turks have issued another warning, this time giving France and Britain three days in which to withdraw their war vessels."

There is no indication the second ultimatum will receive more consideration than the first. Eleven allied cruisers are standing by in Smyrna harbor, definitely defying the Turks to take advantage of the "liberty of action" to which they lay claim in their latest threat.

Mustapha Kemal and Ismet Pasha are to meet at Ismid, where the latter will report on the Lausanne conference. Ismet has been delayed on his homeward journey by snowstorms, and was at Bucharest Sunday. Upon the delegates' report to Mustapha Kemal depends the next move of the Angora government.

PARIS — (Associated Press) — The three day extension of the Turkish ultimatum demanding the withdrawal of the allied battleships at Smyrna is not expected to modify the positive stand taken by France and Great Britain and so far as is known the orders to the naval commanders to defend their positions if attacked still holds good.

Press dispatches confirm reports, which have also reached London, that the Turks last Saturday decided to wait another three days for the withdrawal of the warcraft. They reserved to themselves full liberty of action after the expiration of that time.

Constantinople newspapers maintain that the situation will be adjusted satisfactorily, after they declare that the order closing the port of Smyrna will not be countermanded. One journal terming the increase of British naval strength in the eastern Mediterranean as an "unnamable and hostile act," asserts that Turkey is demanding the departure of the allied warcraft as a measure for her own safety.

GOVERNORS INVITED TO ROAD CONFERENCE

HARRISBURG, Pa. — Governor Pinchot today announced that he had issued invitations to the governors of all states to send representatives to a conference here March 23 and 24 for the interchange of ideas on road building policies and practices.

"The purpose of the conference," said the governor, "will be to compare the policies and practice of state highway construction, methods of state highway maintenance and the whole problem of traffic regulation, with specific reference to cooperation between the states in this regulation. I am convinced that a very important reduction in the enormous and unnecessary injury and loss of life and limb now caused by reckless and unregulated driving can be brought about by such a conference."

CHICAGO — Mrs. William Johnson, her neck broken and her body a mass of bruises, was found dead in the chicken coop in the rear of her home here yesterday. Her husband was arrested and held for questioning after police declared the woman was murdered. Johnson said he discovered the body after waiting all night for his wife to return home.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN

(Feb. 12, 1809—April 15, 1865)

(BY BERTON BRALEY)

ALWAYS he saw himself as but a man; A spirit moving in an earthly clod. Always he held himself as of the clan That hews the wood and tills the stubborn sod; He had the gift to vision and to plan Simply and truly. All the ways he trod Were humble, common ways; yet we scan Lincoln as one who came close unto God. Man among men, railsplitter, servant, master, Never he lost the simple human trait; And thus he saved a nation from disaster, Faithful in small things, ruler over great! Walking by common ways at last to death, Like that poor carpenter of Nazareth.

LINCOLN LINKED ORDER MODIFIED WITH PERICLES IN SHORT CASE

American and Greek Statesmen Called Democracy's Founders

Husband Is Given Right to Visit Home to Get Mail

CHICAGO — (Associated Press) — Abraham Lincoln and Pericles were linked as the "greatest champions of democracy the world has ever known," by P. S. Lambros, publisher of the Greek Star of Chicago, in an address prepared for delivery today at the Hamilton club's observance of the one hundred and fourteenth anniversary of the birth of the Emancipator.

"Lincoln's birthday is a lesson that teaches us to be more patriotic, better Americans, to let us have faith to believe that right is might and firm in that conviction, let us to the end, dare to do our duty as God gives us to see it."

Mr. Lambros said, after telling of his arrival in America 35 years ago: "The duty to our country, the value of Americanism, the devotion to our religion, no matter what it is, and the true spirit of love to mankind, have been expressed in the above quotation of Abraham Lincoln."

He declared that the Gettysburg address, translated in all languages, is universally known as the greatest lamentation in history and that although it is in a class by itself, historical records showed another notable funeral oration, delivered in Athens by Pericles two thousand years ago. In his study the speaker said it was not his intention to compare Lincoln and Pericles but Modification of an order made by Judge Fred C. Becker in a divorce action instituted by Mrs. Tonnle Short, 731 S. Elizabeth-st, against William Short, iron worker, was made at a hearing Monday morning.

The order restrained Short from interfering with his wife or going to the home during pendency of the suit.

Judge Becker so modified the order so as to permit Short to go to the house and get his mail once each week.

Allegations were made by the wife in the hearing purporting to show that Short has sought to force his wife to sell the house and move to the country. He is alleged to have declared he intended going to the moonshining business. Short denied this in court, Monday.

The duty to our country, the value of Americanism, the devotion to our religion, no matter what it is, and the true spirit of love to mankind, have been expressed in the above quotation of Abraham Lincoln."

PARIS THREATENS KNOCKOUT BLOW

General Boycott in Ruhr is Launched by Natives

BRINGS WARNING OF FRENCH

Strikes Mean Own Ruin, the Teutons Are Told

LONDON — (Associated Press) — A Central News despatch from Berlin today says two French soldiers and one German were killed in a clash at Gelsenkirchen in the Ruhr, this morning, when German soldiers halted a motor car containing French soldiers.

DUESSELDORF — (Associated Press) — Reports that the Germans are organizing a general strike at Herne, not far from Bochum, have led to the dispatch of French tanks to that place.

The Germans are boycotting the forces of occupation throughout the Herne district and the French have been obliged to take over the work of some of the German police. The boycott, in fact, is becoming more and more popular throughout the Ruhr and the Germans have decided to extend it to Essen, refusing to do business with the French and Belgians, beginning today.

Commenting on the results of the first month of the occupation, General Degoutte told the correspondent that Germany "is treated as a quilter before the entire world."

"But I solemnly warn Germany," he continued, "that if a single one of my soldiers is harmed and she forces another battle on us, she will not stay our hand by crying 'kammerad.' It will be a fight to the finish, a complete knockout."

DEBENTURE STRIKING The general expressed the opinion that Germany would not fight until she believed herself stronger than her adversary.

"The moment she feels an opponent is more powerful," he said, "she surrenders." She pleaded and begged for an armistice under circumstances in which the allies would have considered they had just begun to fight."

General Degoutte declared that France sought redress rather than the economic destruction of Germany as has been charged by Chancellor Cuno.

"We want Germany to honor her signature," he continued. "The economic ruin of Germany would prevent her from paying us. Germany by foisting strikes, is responsible for the present situation of achieving her own ruin."

Pointing to the great difficulties France faced in the Ruhr, the general said that even American energy and genius might have found the situation difficult. He added, however, that "right and might" were on the side of France and that she would win.

WILL IGNORE ORDER BERLIN — (Associated Press) — An Essen despatch today, the Rote Fahne says that a conference of the Rheinisch-Westphalian workers has been called for March 4. The meeting is being organized by a special committee appointed by the workmen's councils to request the summoning of a conference of leading international labor organizations to take "all measures necessary in the interest of the proletariat."

The Berlin press finds little to be liking in the Franco-Belgian note prohibiting German cabinet members from entering the Ruhr. One newspaper declares that the minister will disregard the order, while Hugo Stinnes' paper, the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, finds the note partly ludicrous.

FRENCH IN CONFERENCE PARIS — (Associated Press) — General Degoutte, who spent part of the week-end in Paris had long conferences with president Millerand, Premier Poincare, Marshal Foch and Minister of War Maginot at which the state of the Ruhr occupation was discussed. It is understood that the conference also went over the new order prohibiting the exportation of mail and other manufactures to unoccupied Germany from Ruhr and Rheinland plants.

Before returning to Dueseldorf, General Degoutte told a representative of the Echo de Paris that he was well satisfied with the conversations and that he was entirely confident of the final result of the occupation.

Perhaps it is yet a long way off, he said, for the task is difficult, but there is no possible doubt but that we shall prevail in the end.

MAY DISCLOSE WAR PREMIER Poincare is understood to be very sensitive as to public opinion abroad regarding the seizure of the Ruhr, feeling acutely the criticism voiced in the United States and England following exchanged protests of the German government against measures which it declares illegal. Those who take an aggressive stand hold that a state of war, which would not necessarily mean the opening of hostilities, would give France a free hand in putting an end to the repeated protests of Germany over the alleged illegality of the French action.

It is considered in these circles that there is ample ground for declaring a state of war in these facts. That according to their standpoint Germany has practically torn up the treaty of Versailles and thus destroyed the peace status that existed by treaty.

AVIATORS ARE NOW ABLE TO PRODUCE RAIN

DAYTON — (United Press) — Artificial rain making is a success. Professor Wilder D. Bancroft, of Cornell University, announced today.

A series of experiments at McCook aviation field have proved moisture can be made to fall and clouds and fog disappear almost at will, Professor Bancroft declared.

Observers at the field described the results as "uncanny."

Bancroft's experiments were conducted with the co-operation of the army air service.

The methods of producing rain involves sprinkling electrically charged grains of sand on clouds by airplane. Thus far it has been employed chiefly for the purpose of breaking fog over aviation fields.

The electrically charged grains of sand, Professor Bancroft said, diminish the surface tension of minute drops of moisture and facilitate further condensation.

Some of the experiments were conducted over clouds a mile in length and produced immediate results. Snow flurries followed results of the experiments over McCook field.

The army air service proposes to make further experiments at its Moundville, W. Va., field. A balloon equipped with an electrical sand charging device, will be anchored over the field to keep the field and surrounding fields free from mist and fog.

The possibilities of artificial rain-making to benefit farmers have not yet been tested, it was said, but Professor Bancroft indicated that would be a natural development of the experiments.

Charged sand, ground finer than talcum powder, may be liberated at a height of several thousand feet and allowed to fall slowly thru huge clouds, thus producing a precipitation over a large area, Professor Bancroft said.

GOLD FLOW TO U. S. TO STOP SOON

Forecast in Report of Comptroller of Currency

GIVEN AS ENCOURAGING SIGN

Declared Long Step Toward Economic Equilibrium

WASHINGTON — (Associated Press) — America is justified in hoping that in the very near future there will be a cessation of imports of gold into this country and when that point is reached a long step will have been taken toward the restoration of a world economic equilibrium, Comptroller Crissinger, of the currency, declares in his annual report transmitted today to Congress. This nation holds virtually one half of the world gold stock, he says, describing the situation as "no less unfortunate for us than it is for other countries to have their stocks so sadly depleted."

Discussing the steady flow of gold to America's shores, the report declares that the "water saturated currency" of many countries now has begun to yield to the inevitable pressure and the more stable money units of other countries are being called in and utilized. Mr. Crissinger regards this situation as "all to the good" and as proof that "in the end the gold standard will be recognized as the safest, soundest, and most reliable that fiscal and economic wisdom has yet devised."

WASHINGTON — (Associated Press) — The Comptroller of the currency, in his annual report, warns that thought must be given to future conditions which may be presented when the world gold stocks again are liberated and free to travel about the world in equalization of industrial and financial requirements.

"We have need," he says, "to keep our stocks of gold so well in hand, our credit so sound, our ability so secure, that we will be able to meet the demands without shock or jar to the industrial and business concerns of the country. It is because we must look forward to the time when we shall have to return our present gold holdings to those from whom in recent years it has come to us, that we must give thought to the importance of having our financial establishment in order and prepared for the demands which will come to it."

"From the purely financial point of view, the cessation of gold imports would represent a long step toward the restoration of that economic equilibrium which is absolutely necessary as a prerequisite to the reestablishment of sound monetary systems throughout the world. While it is true that the paper money of some unfortunate countries has experienced disaster, it is also true that these very disasters have been a lesson to statesmen and business men everywhere, and on the whole, have emphasized in the public mind our dependence upon a sound money system, based upon gold, and enabling international commodity transactions to be conducted in confidence and security."

APPEALS COURT AFFIRMS WISE CASE $1,000 FINE

Sad news was handed Edward Wise, Island View, by the court of appeals Monday when after reviewing evidence in a conviction in Logan-co on a charge of illegal possession of liquor, the court affirmed a $1,000 fine.

Wise was arrested at Island View, on the north side of Indian Lake, in October. He was convicted and carried his case to appeals court on error.

One week ago Wise was arrested in Logan-co on another charge. He pleaded not guilty and is held on $1,000 bond. News of the judgment of the higher court was received by Wise Monday while eating breakfast in his cell.

The county commissioners have leased the N. Pierce-st. property at a yearly rental of $480.

MOISTURE IN WEATHER MENU

Sloppy conditions bid fair to hold sway over this immediate section tonight or Tuesday. That is, there is dampness in the forecast by the weather maker, but whether it will be realized in action, well—that's another story.

Prediction of snow on Sunday failed to materialize, but there has been a gradual tendency toward rising temperature which bids fair to continue. Rain in south and rain or snow in north portions tonight and Tuesday, with rising temperature, that probably means overcast, raincoats and shower sticks will be the vogue, even though it's rain or snow. Either, or both, will produce sloppy conditions.

While industrious citizens labor to keep their walks clear of snow, they have visions of gentle springtime in the not far distant future. Advertisements of garden seeds and baby chicks are making their appearance.

The prudent citizen will prepare himself to meet conditions when the weatherman lapses into a moist mood, for there is danger to helath in wet feet.

SALE OF OLD CITY HALL URGED

opinion that such new construction would be found too difficult to finance at this time."

F. E. GOODING, shoe dealer: "A very good idea. By all means sell the old building and give business an opportunity to expand in one of the most valuable parts of the downtown section. I see this proposition as a very desirable one."

A. J. GRAY, county commissioner: "I believe something the kind should be done, whether a new city building is erected in the public square, or elsewhere. Ground in W. High-st., between Main and Elizabeth, is very valuable. However, the county could not unite with the city in this proposition, for under the law, ownership of anything the county builds must be vested in the county."

"This matter has been investigated thoroughly heretofore."

ROY B. GREGG, dry goods merchant: "I believe that some disposition should be made of the old high-st. building. It is too impractical to use as it is. It would be a fine thing, with street car transfer and waiting room and comfort station. I approve the suggestion heartily."

R. B. DUNN, manager Deisel company and former head of the chamber of commerce: "I was formerly sold on the proposition of erecting a city-county administration building in the square, but I understand such a plan was balked by claim that the property is owned by the county and that the commissioners would not cooperate."

"There is a way of getting around the technicality. The city should own half the building and the county the other half. Such a thing is not impossible. I trust that some such plan can be worked out."

H. J. BILGERMAN, clothier: "By all means the city should dispose of the old building, if a good price can be had for it. A building of some sort should occupy the center of the square. The square is beautified with fountains and flower beds."

D. J. CABLE, attorney and head of the street railway company: "I am in favor of anything that will advance the interests of Lima. However, I feel that before the old building is sold, the city should have a new structure should be worked out. I am in favor of the proposition, if it can be done."

HARMON BUSSERT, auto dealer: "Sounds to me like a good thing, if a good figure can be had for the old building. I cannot see why anyone should oppose the suggestion made by the commission."

A. C. CAJACOB, optometrist: "Use of the public square for such a purpose as proposed would be a wonderful plan, in my opinion."

E. R. CURTIN, banker and gas company head: "I approve of the plan of getting the city office together and also favor the sale of the old building, at the right price. However, I believe that a new building should be erected some place other than in the square. Personally, I favor the beautification of the public place with fountains, flower beds and other ways."

HENRY DEISEL, manufacturer: "The old property in High-st. is very valuable and probably could be disposed of at a high figure. The proposition looks good. I heartily favor the city being afforded a good office building."

G. E. BLUM, dry goods merchant: "Do not believe it is possible to use the public square for the purpose suggested. The proposition of selling the old and erecting a new building should be left to the people of the city to decide by ballot."

FIRST ROBIN REPORTS ARE DUE—KICK IN!

Many other localities have had their "first robin" story. Lima has been no exception. Surely somebody has noticed a "robust" among the early callers.

The Ornithological Editor of The News would like to know if anyone in the Lima territory has lapped one of these visitors from the Southland.

If you have, tell about it in a letter to the Ornithological Editor. However, be sure that it was a robin before relating the incident. "Nature faking" is not in accord with the teachings of that great American, Theodore Roosevelt.

Since the "first grasshopper" has been reported, it's time for the robin.

LINCOLN LINKED WITH PERICLES

the striking similarity in the two orations, one representing the glory that was Greece and the other "the glory that is America."

PERICLES THE ORIGINATOR

"In making a comparison of the democratic ideals of both men, we can safely say that Pericles was the originator of democracy and Lincoln was the perfecter," he said.

"Both speeches were funeral orations, delivered to inspire democracy. Pericles' funeral oration stands as the Old Testament of democracy while Lincoln's Gettysburg address stands as the gospel of democracy."

"It was the ambition of Pericles to abolish slavery and oligarchy. Lincoln, the great American, believed that all men were born equal. Pericles said 'as regards the laws of Athens, all enjoy equality.'"

"When Pericles was called upon to address the Athenians, to pay tribute to the dead heroes, he commenced his oration by saying: 'I will begin then, with our ancestors; our fathers inherited a country with everything, so as to be the most self-sufficient, both for peace and for war.'"

"Quoting Lincoln, we note 'our fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty.'"

"Aside from the addresses delivered by both great men, they have the same philosophical similarity. Pericles said 'I am not bound to win, but I am bound to be true.' Pericles said 'where the greatest prizes of virtue are given, there also the most virtuous men are to be found among the citizens.'"

Varied ceremonies marked commemoration here of Lincoln's anniversary. Civil war veterans memorial services under supervision of the Grand Army. Among the speakers was Addison G. Proctor of Michigan, believed to be the only living survivor of the nominating convention that named Lincoln for president in 1860.

USED OWN MONEY ONLY

WASHINGTON — (Associated Press) — A money volume in the archives of the postoffice department, which is recorded the appointment of Abraham Lincoln as postmaster at New Salem, Sangamon-co., Illinois, on May 7, 1833, recalls on his birthday anniversary to-day an interesting story of his postmastership which is said to be a tradition of the service.

As related in a memorandum made public by the department, it was several years after the postmaster of the New Salem had been closed in 1839, that one of the few special agents who was assigned to that city called on Lincoln, then a struggling young lawyer of 27, to close up finally the accounts of the office.

The former postmaster, in accordance with departmental routine had waited for the agent's visit. The latter, according to the story, signed Lincoln with a statement showing a balance due the government from the postoffice amounting to about $17.

"Lincoln," as the memorandum relates the story, "responded by rising from his chair, crossing his office to an old trunk in the corner and taking from it a cotton rag tied with a string. Unfolding it, he produced the exact sum of money demanded by the postoffice agent, indicating that he had held the sum intact and untouched ever since his retirement as postmaster."

"I never use any man's money but my own," he ejaculated calmly.

County Humane Officer to Start Roundup Tuesday

At the same time a steady stream of owners of canines was filing into the office of County Auditor C. R. Phillips, to buy tags.

That is was an unfamiliar mission with many was evidenced by the fact that a large number of applicants were at a loss to know where to buy tags.

A number made application at either the sheriff's office or to the clerk of courts.

More than 50 licenses were sold Monday up to noon. Auditor Phillips anticipated at least another half hundred in the afternoon. The office closes at 6 p. m. Monday.

Commencing Tuesday, unlicensed dogs found running at large will be in danger of being impounded and later disposed of.

VAL OF PARADISE

By VINGIE E. ROE

But John Hannon was grimly with Clendenning, hand and heart, it seemed.

CHAPTER XV

On the Rim of Mesa Grande
Val Hannon rode the open and constantly. Born to the range and the saddle as she was, she seemed filled with a keener restlessness than usual, a more poignant drawing to the sweeping levels.

For John Hannon's blood was stirring in her and she had found her star. She had raised her innocent eyes to it in the peculiar idolatry of that strange staunch blood—and forever after she would know no other light. Horse—friend—lover—Val Hannon would be true to them as simply as water to its level. So she rode among the mesas and dreamed her dreams, and always she listened for a rider's coming from the illimitable distances, searched the south for him.

And who shall say but that Velantrie, fighting his inner battle far away, drawn desperately by the triple lure of beauty, purity and honest love, felt the longing of her heart, the call of those warm brown eyes? At any rate he came again on a windy golden day, and met the girl by the Antelope—and they had scarce need of speech.

"They rode together with eager outstretched hands and eyes that searched each other's faces with a grave, fierce hunger.

"Val!" said Velantrie, softly, for the first time using her first name, even in his thoughts. Val did not answer, though her every nerve responded to the voice. It seemed that for once in her life she could not speak, that there was a fog of joy within her throat.

She held hard to his hand and looked at him—just as her father looked at Belle. It was a pity that Belle Hannon could never see that look on her husband's face. Valantrie was more blessed, Val.

"Ride with me," said Val, presently. "I want to show you my country—some of our springs—and Mesa Grande."

And Velantrie, the strong, the man who mastered his own desires, turned with her, weak as water in this one girl's hands, and rode with her openly across the plains.

So they went by Whitewater, boiling above its silver sands, stopped to drink and loiter by its sentinel trees, then on again to the Mesa Grande.

"This has always been a secret place for me," said Val, brightly. "I have come here always. It is so old and so high in the sky, as if it is under the feet of God and I sometimes fancy I can hear the angels' wings sweeping about the cliffs.

"They dismounted and leaving the horses to stand in hip-dropped rest, walked here and there among the crumbling huts of a lost, forgotten people.

It was mid-afternoon and the drowsy heat was tempered by a soft wind from the south. Where the central hut stood large among its fellows they stopped again and Val sat down, her booted feet crowded under her, and took off her hat. The hair was sweated on her temples and the man's eyes caressed each little puffed curl. His fingers twitched with the age-old ache to smooth them back, to touch the fair forehead beneath.

He relented a cigarette instead and leaned against the wall.

"This was the council-house," said Val, "where the headmen gathered. It must have held a desperate council that far-off time when the enemy was coming up the cliff—I'd have liked to see those grim dark faces when they decided on the long leap for all their race."

"Look at mine!" said Velantrie with such sudden sharp bitterness that the girl caught her breath, glancing up with startled eyes.

"What do you mean?" she said. Velantrie, "somewhere on the border," threw away the cigarette and sat down opposite her.

"What I said. Look at my face, Miss Hannon, and you will see the same desperate decision—for myself. Long ago I tried to make it—and for the first time since I can remember, failed. In all the great crises of my life I have been able to command myself—until—lately. Always I have prided myself on my inner strength. Now I find I am not so strong as I had thought—that is, that I have not been. I build that, now—today—to build myself like our departed friends of the old huts here. I, too, have a leap to make. Help me to make it, Miss Hannon."

"I AM ON A MAN-HUNT, FORSWORN TO KILL THE MAN WHO KILLED MY FATHER."

The smile that curled his lips was tender, but the look in his blue eyes was growing hard, like a martial flame struggling up to light a marching army.

"Too long I have dallied in this country," he went on. "I have wronged you, and Father Hillaire and myself—in staying hereabouts."

Val wet her lips and listened gravely.

Velantrie laid aside his heavy hat, wiped his face with a hand that was not quite steady. The lines of his features seemed to sink deeper in, as if he stood to his task with an effort.

"I am a man forsworn to blood," he said presently, "a man whom all the Border knows. I am a thief and a bandit. I have ridden and pillaged for four years now, and my hand has been against the wealthy. I have a band of men who swear by me, hard characters all, and they follow me for the shares I give them of my ill-gotten gains. I hate them all to a man, almost, but I must have them."

He paused and looked hard in the girl's eyes. They were steady as harbor lights, though the blood was slowly draining from her cheeks.

"Is that enough?" he asked brutally.

"No," said Val Hannon, pitiously, his fingers gripping the brim of her hat. "It is not enough."

"Then by Heaven!" cried Velantrie, leaping to his feet, "I'll tell you the rest!"

Val rose too and faced him with her pale lips fallen helplessly apart.

"I am on a man-hunt, forsworn to kill on sight—the man who killed my father!"

They stared hard at each other, these two young creatures there in the shade of the ancient council-house on top of the world, and they looked with tragic eyes on the naked depths of each other's souls.

"Is it enough?" said Velantrie, hoarsely, "will you let me go now?"

But Val shook her head and put a strong hand on his shoulder.

"No," she said again, "never under God's heaven—if you want to stay. Do you?"

The man frowned and did not answer.

She leaned near, sweetly, dangerously near, and her dark eyes were the most wonderful things he had ever beheld in all his life—sane, suffering, honest to the depths.

With a groan he turned from her, covered his face with his hands and laid it against the wall.

In the tense silence that followed, tragic, pregnant, the heat seemed to glimmer faintly from the hard earth of the mesa and all the world about to listen. The shudder under the girl's gripping hand trembled as with a chill.

A sigh that was near a sob heaved the man's shoulders and he straightened from the wall, wiping his ash-en face with a downward sweep of his hands. When he looked at Val again he had aged tremendously. But the shaking of his features was gone. He was steady as a rock. Then the girl spoke.

"You have a death to keep. A bad word broken is better than one kept. Will you not break this one—because I ask you to?"

"Don't!" cried the man, "Don't ask me that! The man was my father, and I loved him as few sons love their parents. Do you love John Hannon?"

"Yes," she answered.

"Could you see him killed before your eyes—and let the murderer go unpunished?"

Val's hand slipped from his shoulder and she turned frowning eyes cut over the distant plain. Far in the pale expanse a rider on a pinto horse came idly by the mesa.

She studied it absently while she turned this over in her mind. John Hannon—big, iron-gray, handsome. If a man should kill him—she should be like this man before her, savage, hard as adamant, bent on revenge. Yes, assuredly—there was no other way. Why, she had said she'd kill the man who stole the Redstar, for so slight a wrong as that! One's father, now—

"I see," she said at last slowly. "I understand."

"And when I've done the thing,"

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS—A LITTLE DISAPPOINTMENT—

By BLOSSER

said Velantrie, bitterly, "I cannot come back to you—not then."

"Why?" she asked simply.

Velantrie gulped and swallowed. A very small curved up his lips pathetically.

"Because I can't," he said, "there is an ethics of the case which says the man who dares to lift his eyes to you must be clean as a man can be. I'm not that man."

"You are that man," said Val, clear-eyed. "There is no other."

"No. You've made me weak as water. I've lingered here when I should have been gone long back on the restless quest I've followed. Now I must be gone again. The clue I followed here has seemed to vanish in thin air, anyway, the clue of the Meteor."

"The Meteor? What's that?"

"The horse I told you of one day—the twin of The Comet. The man I'm hunting for is the man who stole this horse—that black day across the Mexican Border which made me what I am. There had been great racing at New Orleans and my father, who owned those two wonderful horses, had had them there. They had run to within two seconds of the world's record and offers poured in from all sides for them. He would not sell them, not for a thousand times their value, for he was a horseman born and they were his pride and glory. I traveled with him always, for we were all of our blood extant, the old man and I, and the life was gay and free. It was a clean life, too, for the pater was a clean and courteous gentleman, of good old Kentucky stock. After the New Orleans races we started for a town in Mexico. It was due spring weather, and at El Paso we took the horses from the railroad and, with two trainers and extra man, were going down on horseback. I'll never forget his pride and pleasure in the splendid animals.

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, yellow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep them fit. 15c and 50c

Able authorities proved these methods effective. Then a new-type tooth paste was created, based on modern research. These two film combatants were embodied in it for daily application. That tooth paste is called Pepsodent. Careful people the world over now use it, largely by dental advice.

A new dental era

Pepsodent also multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize mouth acids, the cause of tooth decay.

It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits which may otherwise ferment and form acids.

Thus it gives manifold power to these great natural tooth-protecting agents. These combined powers mean a new dental era.

You will be amazed

This test of Pepsodent brings a new conception of what clean teeth mean. Present the coupon for it. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

In a week you will know what is best for you and yours—the old ways or the new. That decision is important. Cut out the coupon now.

Combat that film on teeth

Watch the new beauty come

Go ask for this free test.

The results will delight you. They will show you a way which millions have found to whiter, cleaner, safer teeth.

All in your home should know it. Show them at once what it does.

Why teeth grow dingy

You feel on your teeth a viscous film. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. No ordinary tooth paste effectively combats it.

That film is the teeth's great enemy.

Prettier teeth seen everywhere

You see prettier teeth now wherever you look, for millions are fighting film. So it is the world over. Careful people of some 50 nations now use Pepsodent every day. This test will show you why. No one can see the Pepsodent results without wanting them continued.

Avoid Harmful Grit

Pepsodent curdles the film and removes it without harmful scouring. Its polishing agent is far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

Increase Your Red-Blood-Cells. That's the Sure Way! S. S. S. Builds Blood-Cells; This Means Strength!

Do you know why insurance companies refuse to insure a great many men because they are underweight? Simply because to be underweight often proves low fighting-power in the body. It often means you are minus nerve-power, minus red-cells in your blood, minus health, minus energy, minus vitality. It is serious to be minus the moment you increase the number of your red-blood-cells, you begin to become plus. That's why S. S. S. since 1896, has sent to thousands of underweight men and women, a plus in their strength. Hollow cheeks fill out. You stop being a calamity-looking. You inspire confidence. The Value of Real Estate Is Still There

When everything else goes, bankrupt industries, dividends deferred, interest defaulted, bonds repudiated—the value of real estate remains virtually unchanged.
It is this unvarying stability that makes real estate the safest, most conservative investment. Then, too history shows, almost without exception, an increase in real estate values that yields splendid returns.

A Home Costs You Nothing In The Long Run
It usually pays for itself, many times over, in material profits, in an ordinary lifetime.
If you buy through monthly payments it does literally and directly pay for itself, largely from what you would otherwise have paid out in rent.
There are few persons in any ordinary walk of life who will not EARN, SAVE and HAVE far more money when they become HOME OWNERS than they could as renters.
There are thousands of families for whom the buying of a home has been the start of organized saving and investing and the foundation of their present accumulations.
Our homes are sold on a very small down payment and the balance in monthly payments, a little more than rent.

LURE OF DESERT CAUSES MURDER
Oppressiveness Held Responsible for Slaying of Good Samaritan
WAS GOOD GUY, SAYS KILLER
Watch Tempts Boys to Commit Brutal Crime
BY JACK JUNGMEIER
EL CENTRO, Cal.—The desert does nothing to men.
Many have whispered of its mirage madness, its grinning skulls, its singular feuds and unspeakable crimes.
And now, in the brutal murder of Leslie Nichols, good Samaritan of the road, charged against Charlie Davis and Lawrence C. Campbell, whom he had given a ride, desert veterans see the most horrid evidence of its spell.
"A killing as senseless as it was cold-blooded," said Sheriff C. L. Gillette guarding from the wrath of Imperial county the 17-year-old slayers, according to their asserted confession. Possession of Nichols' auto and watch caused their arrest. They led officers to the mutilated body.
JUST A NOTION
"We just got the notion as we drove along," said the boys trying to cover bewilderment with bravado. "We only started to rob the guy."
Davis, of Birmingham, Ala., and Campbell, of Marquette, Mich., had started across the Colorado desert, as they tell the story—broke, out of a job, hoofing it.
The mesquite wilderness with its scuttling lizards and shadows hot as light, scoffed at restraints. It was a strange world for city boys, without a cop in a hundred miles and nothing to check primal impulse.
"Have a ride, boys?" proffered Nichols, traveling adjuster of an insurance company, short-cutting between highways in his flivver.
"Will we—say, I'll tell a guy! Hot smokes and matches. He looked at his watch, eager to get back to his wife in Los Angeles.
Davis and Campbell looked at it, too.
And then it "bert nudged them with a suggestion.
They halted for a drink of water. Again the "bert nudged: A thousand square miles of trackless sand, and its defenseless man with a watch, some money and an auto to get away in!
As Nichols stopped to drink, one of the boys, according to the alleged confession, cracked him on the head with a rock.
"A fine way to treat a friend," dazedly muttered the victim as they stripped him naked. Then, says the confession, they shot him. He staggered off. They cracked him again with rocks, and shot, many times, covering the body with sand, police quote them as saying.
His watch they pawned for $7 at the nearest town.
RECONING BY CALM
In the shadow of the gallows here, under threats of lynching, they recounted the tale without emotion, arguing only as to who had fired the fatal shot, according to Sheriff Gillette.
"But why did you kill Nichols? You could have robbed him without that. Did he put up a fight?"
"Now," said Davis, "he didn't fight. I don't why," with a shrug. "And he was a good guy, too—gave us cigarettes and everything. I don't." "It takes sound character to stand even a little of the desert," suggested the old sand rovers gathered here for the trial.
Nichols says, "There's nobody to see or hear what you do here."

COMEDIAN WEDS
Harold Lloyd Becomes Husband of Mildred Davis
LOS ANGELES—(United Press)—Harold Lloyd, movie comedian, and Mildred Davis, his leading lady, were married here late Saturday by Rev. George Davidson, pastor of St. John's Episcopal church. The wedding was private.
At the home bureau, Lloyd gave his age as 29 and Davis as 21. The honeymoon will probably be spent in touring California by automobile. Later they plan to tour Europe.

PARDON PLANS FOR BOOTLEGGERS HINTED
NEW YORK—Federal authorities indicated Saturday night that influence is being brought to bear upon official Washington to secure reprieve for the four LaMontagne brothers, socially prominent family, head of the Princess Anastasia. She had been jailed for some time and only recently returned to her home from a sanitarium where she had spent several months.
Mr. Leeds was in the house when his wife leaped to her death but did not witness the tragedy.
Mrs. Leeds was missed from her room by her nurse about 8 o'clock Saturday morning.
The nurse summoned a maid and the two started a search of the house finally coming upon Mrs. Leeds looking out a fifth story window.

CLARA PHILLIPS NOT IN MEXICAN PENITENTIARY
NEW YORK—Clara Phillips, Los Angeles "hammer murderer," is not imprisoned in the Chihuahua state prison, according to a telegram received Saturday night by the United Press from Jose Perez, private secretary to the governor of the prison.
Following the assertion of Lee Manning, federal immigration officer who returned with "Little Phil" Alquist that the banished woman had been jailed in the Chihuahua institution by Mexican authorities, the United Press wired the prison governor for confirmation. Perez's reply to the United Press telegram follows:
"Your telegram to the governor received. Clara Phillips is not in this place."

U. S. RULE?
Isle of Pines Folk Weigh Its Advantages as Senator Moves To Buy Territory

SANTA FE, Isle of Pines—(Special)—Joy over the possibility of again living under the American flag was mingled with grief on the part of some over the possible coming of a "dry" regime when word reached here from Washington that Senator Pomerene of Ohio had introduced a resolution in the United States Senate authorizing President Harding to negotiate with the Cuban government regarding acquisition of this island.
The island has been developed chiefly by Americans who settled here at the close of the Spanish-American War and who today own $21,000,000 worth of property, the island politically belongs to Cuba. It has a diameter of about 40 miles and an area of 849 square miles. There are two important towns, Santa Fe and Nueva Gerona, the capital.
Cattle raising and cultivation of citrus fruit are the principal industries—both capitalized and engaged in almost exclusively by Americans. Several previous attempts have been made to bring the island under American jurisdiction.

SPEED DEVICE TO BREAK RECORDS
Novel One-Wheel Racer to Run on Steel Cable
MARION, Ia.—(Special)—A one-wheeled racer vehicle that will beat every speed record yet accomplished.
A vehicle that can't turn turtle—that becomes steadier the faster you drive it.
Trains that will run at a dizzy speed overhead using single cables instead of steel rails for tracks.
Professor E. J. Christie thinks he will have made all those things possible when he has completed his "gyroscopic unicycle."
Already Christie has made small models that run at a tremendous speed and can't be overturned. Now he's concentrating on a large model in which a man can ride.
14-FOOT WHEEL
The unicycle is a queer looking device. The main wheel—the one on which the car runs—is 14 feet in diameter and looks like a giant bicycle wheel. Its axle is 12 feet long.
On this axle are mounted two gyroscopic wheels which are propelled independently of the speed of the axle. The gyroscopic force of these two wheels in motion holds the unicycle upright—unafraid, they render upsetting the machine impossible.
A large airplane motor, suspended from the axle, furnishes the power. The driver sits in a seat inside the big wheel and above the axle.
The unicycle has unlimited speed possibilities, Christie says. It's the ideal racing car, he believes.
And the inventor also claims great commercial possibilities for his device. The fact that it can be operated on an elevated rail or cable for fast mail service opens up one of many commercial fields, Christie says.

ENTERTAINING THE PUBLIC

THERE are events aplenty ahead in Lima for the entertainment, amusement and instruction of the public, no matter what one's personal inclinations may be in the very important matter of picking and choosing for those things that please and satisfy individual tastes.

In a city of the size and importance of Lima plans are constantly in formation for unusual forms of entertainment. What is worked out becomes of importance to all of Allen-co and even beyond the confines of this unit of the commonwealth, for the very reason that other smaller communities cannot in the natural order of things work out projects on such a great scale as is possible in a larger city.

The Moose carnival, to be opened to the public this week, will soon be followed by the eisteddfod, the great singing and literary event. There is also the K. of C. carnival of later date and the Elks' spring festival to follow. Not the least of future events by any means is the automobile show, plans for which are now in course of formation. And there are many other things to look forward to.

With the rapid passing of the month of February, the shortest of the year in the number of days at least, thoughts naturally turn to springtime events. There is a better tone of optimism as this territory is rapidly moving away from the peak of winter's blasts.

Building plans are developing with a rapidity that is amazing. The number of projects ahead affords proof in ample measure that Lima simply cannot go backward. Business men and manufacturers are arranging their affairs with a view to renewed effort as the lethargy of winter is being thrown off. Affairs that provide entertainment, amusement and instruction are as necessary as food, light and heat and other personal comforts.

They prevent the great public from growing away from one another. They provide the point of contact that keeps great communities running smoothly in business, social affairs and neighborly intercourse.

YOUR RATING

THE world's most perfect servant is claimed by the Pullman Company. He's David G. Scott, 77 years old. Scott had to retire from regular work in 1914, but he still has his uniform and goes to work when the sleepers run out of porters and flash the emergency call.

Scott served as a porter for nearly 45 years. During all that time he received 476 credit marks and not one demerit or complaint. As in many other organizations, porters have their rating, and kicks or boosts are registered on their grade cards.

This is a remarkable record. It is no easy thing to satisfy all corners of one generation, let alone several generations. Scott started as a porter in 1870. He was able to adapt himself to changing times. During his many years of service, he must have had to put up with thousands of cantankerous people who were about as easy to handle as hot stovetops upside down on the floor.

No matter how good we average, we are judged more by our mistakes than by our good points. A cynical statement, possibly, but true. There is something about the average person, living in a high-strung nervous age, that seems to keep him constantly watching for something to object to.

Good and courteous service, we take as a matter of course. But let some person crack under the strain of handling the public, and the immediate come-back is: "I'll report you."

It rarely occurs to us to report good treatment. Man by nature is a critical destroyer, rather than a constructive upbuilder.

You know how a crowd reacts to a ballplayer when he makes a few slips, regardless of his good record on the average. And, the better the player, the louder and more savage the criticism for an error.

So it goes with all of us in our daily lives. One mistake may be overlooked, but several mistakes bring the exit sign dangerously close.

A painter doesn't have to slip many times to fall off the ladder. The greatest destroyers of careers are inaccuracy, unreliability and chronic unpleasantness or occasional outbursts of temper.

KEEP YOUR MAN COVERED

The patient was about to say, when our hot mustard foot bath was interrupted, several things not suitable for publication in this newspaper but if you ever have tried or ever do try to give a hot mustard foot bath you will know what the patient was about to say.

Thruout the bath, which should last 20 minutes, the patient naked between blankets, must be kept well under the covers and covered heavily. Of course the nurse must keep the tub from overturning, by holding it with one hand, and use her other hand for dipping out dipperful of water every minute and adding dipperful of hotter water, to keep the water in the foot tub just a point or two hotter at all times than the patient thinks he can endure. If it doesn't scald the nurse's hand, let the patient swear he can't endure it. Let him swear in several languages if he is that kind of man. But keep his feet in the tub and his body well tucked under the blankets.

Thruout the bath keep a cold compress on the patient's forehead; change the compress every few minutes.

If the patient thirsts for drink give him to drink, as freely as he he likes, more hot lemonade or cold water or any other hot or cold beverage except "booze." But at no time should he be permitted to uncover even an arm until the bath is concluded.

The bath may be considered a success and concluded when the patient begins to perspire, maybe he will sweat. If he can't even sweat the ungrateful creature will at least have the grace to redder all over; that, after all, is good evidence that the foot bath is serving the purpose.

Dry the feet and put a hot bottle under the blankets. Give the patient another drink, tuck him in some more, and let him ruminate for not less than an hour on life, past, present or future. Presently he will feel content to stew or bake under the blankets but to this time, from the beginning, he will have threatened 26 times to throw off the blankets and be comfortable. But he must not do that.

When he has stewed sufficiently, maybe after an hour or two, and has had a little nap, he may escape from the blankets, be dried and put into a dry nightgown. It is standard nursing practice to give the patient a sponging with alcohol or an ordinary tepid sponge bath following the h. m. f. b. if the patient has perspired freely. However, that is not essential. Nor need there be the slightest anxiety about the patient "taking cold" after such artificial sweating, no matter what precautions may be taken or neglected.

There is no other remedy at all comparable, in my judgment, with a hot mustard foot bath, properly given as I have outlined, in the earlier stage of any acute respiratory infection which purports to be a "cold." For the man or woman whose time is valuable or whose work is too important to interrupt it is the best economy to go right to bed and send for a nurse to give a hot mustard foot bath at the very onset of such trouble.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Catching cold. Q. I wear sleeves that are short, so that her arms are bare from elbow in wrist. Is that a reason for her catching cold so easily?—R.

Answer—No. The various communitable diseases unaccountably dubbed "colds" are contracted usually thru droplet or spray infection; the clothing worn by the victim can bear no relation to such infection. If the little one is comfortable with short sleeves or no sleeves, little clothing or no clothing, rest assured he is healthy. Probably the most healthful mode of life for children who have various forms of tuberculosis and allied infections, is the life they lead in institutions where the mother sun-bath treatment is followed. These youngsters many of them crippled, regularly play in the snow with nothing on except breeches and shoes. It is the life that cures.

It is said to be fruit at mealtimes? May fruit and milk be taken at the same meal? Would such a combination turn a poison?—E. T. L. Answer—Fruit is an excellent first course for breakfast and an excellent dessert with any meal. Fruit and milk may be taken at the same meal or in the same dish if you like such a combination. The notion that this or any other combination of wholesome foods produces or forms a poison or has vague ill effects is inspired only by the "hunk" of the self constituted milk and food specialist who naturally has to tell "em starting things to obtain the price for the "course." Rest assured that any combination of foods that appeals to your taste will be as agreeable to your digestion, provided you are not too greatly worried by mail order fishology.

Professional Confidence. Two young girls wish to know whether reputable doctors are under oath or bound by law not to betray confidences placed in them by patients. Both girls need about attention but are afraid the doctor may betray them to their parents or other persons.—Mrs. S. Answer—Yes. Doctors are bound by the Hippocratic oath not to divulge a patient's confidence, even tho the patient confesses a crime. The law, too, binds the doctor to secrecy. (Copyright, 1923)

GIRLS

"Girls ain't the same as the girls I knew." "Times ain't at all what they used to be," And they never were! (Copyright, 1923.)

The dowager says, and sighs, "Those old-time maidens would never do A thing that would cause surprise." But she failed to recall, in a large degree, Some things which she saw occur— Girls ain't the same as they used to be, And they never were!

"Men ain't the same as the men of old," The old man said, with a scowl. But he didn't know that the cave man held. Had put up a similar howl. And they both were right in their sad decree, To which we can still demur, With, "Men ain't at all what they used to be, And they never were!"

The past is ever a golden time, When it's many a year away, And the folks who're pretty well past their prime Are always aghast at Today! And they're right, of course, as you plainly see, In the judgments that they aver,

Cleveland Man Says Tanlac Brought Quick Results

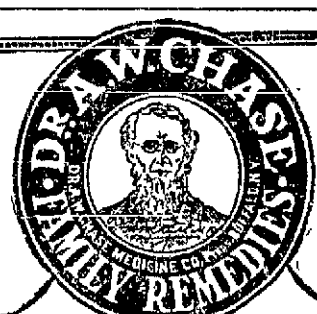

"Tanlac has been such a fine thing for me that I have even written some of my friends in Scotland about its goodness," said John M. Wilson, 606 Woodland Ave., Cleveland, O., recently.

"Last summer I worked on a farm and got in a terribly run-down condition. My appetite so completely went back on me that even a good wholesome country meal wouldn't coax it back. A sour stomach, cramping pains and shortness of breath kept me pretty well used up, and the headaches and dizzy spells were fearful. My back ached so bad I could hardly do any lifting and I came in at night so tired and worn-out I couldn't half sleep."

"But Tanlac soon pulled me out of the ditch. Four bottles of the medicine knocked my troubles a-killing, and I have put on fifteen pounds in weight besides. Why, it seems like I have enough strength and energy to last a life-time, and I want my friends and everybody else to know that Tanlac is what fixed me up."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 35-million bottles sold.

LIMA TO ENTERTAIN ELK PIN TOPPLERS NEXT YEAR

STARS TO BOWL

COLUMBUS—Joseph Gerou, Detroit, was re-elected president of the Elks National Bowling Association at the annual tournament here. Lima was chosen for next year's meet.

The announcement from Columbus that the next Elks National Bowling tournament will be held in Lima 1924 portends one of the biggest events ever held in the city.

Not only will delegations of Elks from every part of the United States come to Lima, but the best pin topplers in the country will bowl in the tournament.

The Lima lodge was anxious to obtain the tournament for 1924 and to that end took the biggest delegation to the Columbus meet of any city in the country. Lima was favored by the other Ohio cities in the tourney and by practically every city in the Great Lakes district, and while the Columbus dispatch does not so state, it is thought that the choice of Lima for next year was practically unanimous.

WHITE FINED BY BOARD

NEW YORK—Charley White, Chicago lightweight, who lost a 15 round decision Friday night to Rocky Kansas of Buffalo, must forfeit $2,500 for being 12 ounces over the stipulated weight of 135 pounds for the match.

Chairman William Muldoon of the state boxing commission, who had not received the promised protest of White's manager to surrendering the $2,500, said today that he probably would order payment to Kansas if the proposition is placed formally before him.

BILLIARD DON'T'S

(BY WILLIE HOPPE)
Don't be in a hurry about your position at the table. Form is very essential in billiards as in every other sport. Face your shot squarely, then turn one-half to the right.
Don't select your cue in a haphazard manner. Proper selection of a cue is largely a matter of individual choice. In billiards no two great players use the same style or weight ball. The same holds good in billiards. I use a 19-12 ounce cue.

Don't allow the cue to sway. You must make a firm bridge. This is most essential to success in billiards, one of the basic fundamentals of the game.

Don't overlook the draw shot in perfecting your billiard game. Play and practice the draw shot at every opportunity; it is the most important in the game.

Don't make a fancy shot when an easy one, the not sensational, will answer the same purpose. It is well to avoid English to the greatest possible extent.

Don't fail to follow thru. In baseball, golf, tennis and billiards the follow thru is the big thought. Finish your stroke at least one inch beyond cue ball.

Don't let the breaks of the game throw you off your stroke. You must concentrate on every shot. Perfection in billiards can only be acquired when you take the game seriously.

Don't lose your temper. Now, if any, sports place a greater strain on the individual player than billiards. No sport offers more opportunities for pet peeves, but they must be avoided. Make up your mind at the start of every game that you are going to maintain your mental balance at all odds.

Don't fail to properly cue the ball. You must always cue the ball in the center, never beyond one-half to right, left, top or bottom of center.

Don't let your confidence in your ability, but never let it be stretched into overconfidence. Never underestimate your opponent. It is the little slip here and there that proves costly in the final count.
Don't get the impression that it is impossible to improve your game by practice. I am constantly discovering some new wrinkle that helps my play.

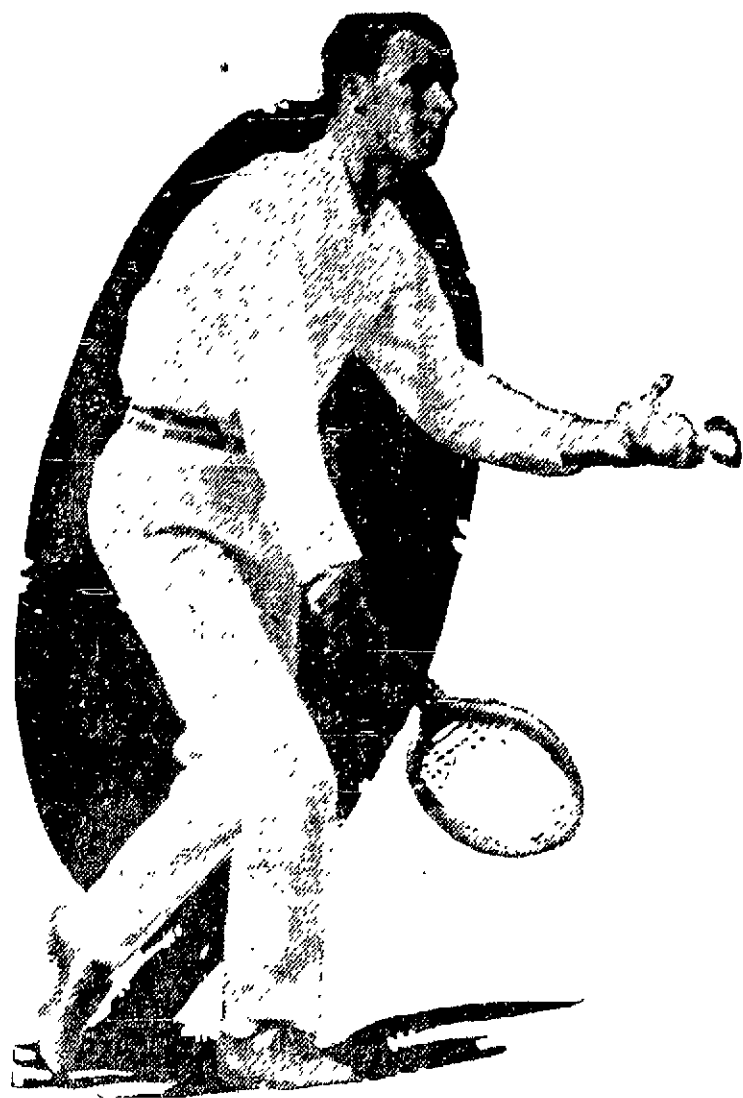

BANDIT IS SLAIN BY CINCINNATI MERCHANT

CINCINNATI — Police said today the late which overtook two hold-up men when they attempted to rob the shoe store of Max Karpner should prove a lesson to others contemplating a career of banditry.

One man, shot by Karpner, is dead. Another is held by police, following his arrest after Karpner had beaten him severely.

The dead man is registered as Harry Carol, 35, Boston, but a friend told police his real name is Harry McDonald, and that he lived in South Boston. The injured bandit, who at first gave his name as St. Louis, gave his name as Jack O'Brien, and now admits he is a Cincinnati.

Richards Answers Question-- Can Tilden Come Back?

BILL TILDEN IN ACTION

By VINCENT RICHARDS

What about Bill Tilden? That question has been fired at me scores of times during the winter.

The injury which Tilden recently suffered, necessitating the removal of the first two joints from the index finger of the right hand, has of course prompted the keen interest in the probable condition of the champion.

As a protegee of Tilden, his partner in many important matches, it seems the public feels that I am best competent to pass an opinion on what the future holds for the world's greatest tennis player.

To me William T. Tilden is just "Big Bill." His remarkable achievement during his reign as "tennis king" makes him the outstanding figure in the tennis world.

There never was a more popular champion. The interest taken in his condition is proof positive of such a situation.

Recently at Chicago, Tilden in some exhibition matches, made his first test of play since recovering from his injury. He met with fair success.

Perhaps it is too early to pass accurate judgment. There are many weeks in front of us before the big tournaments get under way. Many things can happen in that space of time.

After considerable thought, together with some authentic information, I am firmly convinced that for a time in the early spring, "Big Bill" will be easy picking, so to speak, for some of the mediocre players.

I am of the opinion that Tilden will be forced to eliminate many of his tricky court shots in the future, which will mean that he will be forced to stay further away from the net. This will diminish his effectiveness to no small degree and his attack will be limited to a back court game.

But watch him improve! His injured finger will not interfere with his fiery spirit, his dogged determination and his air of confidence.

Tilden is the toughest man in the world to beat and after two months' time, which he will use in perfecting a new style, I am sure he will again prove that he is one of the greatest players.

But will he succeed in annexing the same titles that he so ably gathered in last year? That is another story, of course, the answer to which remains in the unforeseen future.

To my mind the focus of the sport-light will be directed on the matches that will be played between the Philadelphia and Bill Johnston. Always rivals, these two famous athletes never fail to put up a clash that attracts world-wide attention.

Taking into consideration that Tilden was extended to the limit in his attempt to conquer "Little Bill" last year, it is only reasonable to entertain the belief that "Big Bill" will be unable to stomp the tide that the westerner will launch this season.

I was lucky enough to defeat Tilden in two of the major tournaments in 1922 and naturally I have hopes of not only winning from him but also capturing the national title in 1923.

HARRY WILLS WILL NEVER GET CHANCE AT CROWN

NEW YORK—Out of the tangled muddle into which the heavyweight division was tossed by all the recent activities, only one thing seems certain—Harry Wills will not get a chance at the heavyweight title.

Wills may be the outstanding figure among all the challengers for Jack Dempsey's crown, he may be the logical opponent for the champion and all that, but he will never get a chance with Dempsey, because there is no place in which this ring can be pitched.

Feetles were sent out to seven states by parties interested in the proposed bout when it was being sketched in the middle of the summer. The fighters came back cold.

Seven promoters said: "Under no circumstances."

All of them gave the same grounds, "It is not a good thing for boxing and not a good thing for the public. Its after effects would be too dangerous."

Promoters tentatively agreed that it was a "risk" to attempt to stage the bout. Conscience and scruples are not necessarily a part of every promoter's makeup. Some of them would do anything and take a chance for the money that would be in it. Others are not that way.

One very prominent promoter has the following to say about it: "Attempts were made to land a place for Dempsey and Wills to get together. Attempts should have been made to show Wills that he was not being discriminated against by the promoters. Official sentiment was found to be so over-believingly against the match that plans were abandoned."

"No one will say officially that the bout cannot be staged, but it never will be put on. For instance, Gov. Smith will not have to take the political chances of refusing to grant permission for the bout in New York, for the simple reason that he has not been asked and will not be asked for a permit. The world has been passed out to all interests to 'let off' and instructions of that kind are always obeyed."

The difficulty in promoting a heavyweight championship bout between two white men is tremendous, and with the color question injected, it is impossible. Gov. Miller refused to permit the Dempsey-Charles fight in New York. Official sentiment was found to be so over-believingly against the match that plans were abandoned.

The dead man is registered as Harry Carol, 35, Boston, but a friend told police his real name is Harry McDonald, and that he lived in South Boston. The injured bandit, who at first gave his name as St. Louis, gave his name as Jack O'Brien, and now admits he is a Cincinnati.

took the stand that it was a prize fight and that he did not think it could be classed as a boxing exhibition within the meaning of the law.

Wills knows how futile it would be to demand the bout and so does his manager, Paddy Mullins. That is one of the reasons why they have been taking a "back seat" when all the other contenders were storming the promoters and doing all kinds of loud talking. He is being properly advised and he is intelligent enough and men enough to know that the breaks are against him and that they will not break.

Without full knowledge of the facts, a part of the public will at ways think that Jack Dempsey was afraid of Wills and that he ran away from him. The fact of the matter is that Dempsey has always wanted to meet Wills, not shy because he felt sure his title would not be endangered, but for the reason that Wills would be almost as big a drawing card as Carpenter was.

In these days they figure their ability to get their throats into the arena more than their power to sock.

EASTERN ENTRY FAVORED

NEW YORK—The east will again furnish the winner for the Kentucky Derby, America's most highly prized 3-year-old stake.

That is the opinion of Fred Burlew, who trained Morvich, the winner of last year's event. It will be remembered that Burlew had Morvich in great shape for the Kentucky Derby. But after winning that race, the horse, who was regarded as the equal of Man o' War, fumbled badly.

Burlew likes Enchantment for the Derby. He believes that Harry Payne Whitney's great horse will go to the post a top-heavy favorite as was Morvich last year.

Two other entries that appeal strongly to Burlew are Sally's Alleg and a great filly, and Messenger, a most promising colt.

While Burlew doesn't look for the Derby to be so for any particular entry to his way of thinking Enchantment stands out as the greatest 3-year-old possibility.

"A lot of things can happen between now and the Derby that may change things considerably," is the way Burlew safeguards his opinion.

SCHOOL FIVES TO WORK HARD

(BY MERRICK M. HILL)

For the second time this season the Central and South basketball teams are scheduled to stage another fight for athletic supremacy of the city Friday night, but—

Where both teams were in the pink of condition at their first meeting, present indications show that neither is ready for the second conflict, and that both teams will be given the hardest work of the year by their coaches in a final effort to bring the quintets up to usual form.

Friday night, despite the fact that Central won over Springfield, the team showed a woeful lack of form. Trained in a short-pass, close formation game, the quintet seemed to forget their instructions and returned to primitive basketball; that is throwing the sphere the length of the floor and hoping that it would stay out of the hands of an opponent.

Saturday night, altho the Red and Green bowed before Dayton Elvers, the outfit played better basketball during the first half. This week, Coach Thibault will devote his energies to producing team work out of the ragged showing last week.

There is more than a possibility that several changes will be made in the lineup and that the lineup against Central will present some new faces.

South, which only showed once last week, when they defeated St. Mary's, has lost their pep. The cage squad at the Southside school will be handled carefully all week by Coach Burdette in an effort to bring the lads back to the top of their form and to instill the fighting spirit for which South has been noted, and which was absent against St. Mary's.

As it has been almost proverbial that the school teams never show as well as when they play each other, the stimulus of Friday's contest being the last game contest of the year between the two teams, will do much to rouse up both teams—and in all probability, dope will be upset and a real game staged for the hundreds of howling rooters sure to attend.

IOWA EXPECTED TO WIN CAGE TITLE

CHICAGO — Iowa had apparently clinched the western conference basketball title today as the big ten went into the final stretch of the season.

The Hawkeyes have won seven straight games and remain undefeated. One big upset marked the last week in conference play, the defeat of the Ohio State team by Purdue.

Three matches are on the boards for Monday night. Iowa meets Ohio State, Minnesota clashes with Michigan and Indiana and Indiana play at Bloomington.

The tightest battle of the week should come Wednesday when Wisconsin and Michigan, tied for second place, fight it out.

Eight big ten teams will get into action Saturday, with a good chance that the standings of the teams will be changed as a result. Chicago will play at Ohio State, Minnesota at Indiana, Michigan at Northwestern and Illinois at Purdue.

Funk of Iowa is the outstanding scorer of the week, with 79 points, 59 on free throws. Barnes of Chicago is second.

GARRY HERMAN TO BATTLE HARD FOR RUBE BENTON

(BY HENRY L. PARRELL)

NEW YORK — Prepared to wield all the words he owns, Garry Hermann, boss of the Cincinnati Reds, is here to argue the National League out of the pennant.

Herrmann figures that all Pat Moran needs is a southpaw good for about 20 games and he wants to know why he can't have Rube Benton.

President Heydler and four club owners, it seems, do not desire the presence of the former Giant southpaw in the league again while the New York, Boston and Brooklyn clubs have no violent dislike for him. The matter will be decided at the spring meeting of the league tomorrow.

All the Red chieftains want to know is why Benton is not considered good enough for the National League when he is permitted to play in another branch of organized baseball and he threatens to make a showdown of a case that has already been smoldering several times.

When Benton was with the Giants, he and Charley Hertzog were called into the National League offices to clear up some charges. Benton accused Hertzog of making him a proposition to throw a game and Hertzog said it was Benton who approached him. As far as the public knows, the league was never able to straighten it out.

Benton continued to pitch for the Giants until he developed what McGraw announced as bad feet and he was given his unconditional release, being a ten-year man. Benton then signed with Kansas City in the American Association, but some technicality arose and McGraw persuaded him to return with St. Paul.

Last year, he was the leading pitcher of the American Association and in mid-season Mike Kelly, St. Paul manager, claims that McGraw offered $50,000 for him. McGraw denies this and claims that he merely asked Kelly how much he wanted for Benton.

Others want him

Among several other major league clubs, the New York Yankees went after Benton at the close of the season. It was reported that Ben Johnson called the Yankees off.

The Reds then went after him and reached an agreement with the St. Paul club when the National League president announced that Benton would be desirable.

Barney Dreyfuss, Pittsburgh owner, is said to be leading the anti-Benton forces and back of it all perhaps is that ancient Herrmann-Dreyfuss feud that started when Herrmann, as chairman of the national commission, decided the Pittsburgh-St. Louis Brown argument over George Sisler's contract in favor of the Browns.

Stengel admitted that he had been stung in that exchange which gave him Cuthshaw and Stengel for Pitchers Burleigh Grimes, Al Mamaux and Chuck Ward, not to forget a cash sum reported to be $25,000.

Just as soon as Dreyfuss found his opening he traded Stengel and "Casey" was moving again—this time in the summer of 1919, however, Philadelphia, and again Dreyfuss had to add a check in acquiring George Whitted.

Reaching the Phillies Stengel practically had reached the bottom rock.

Then came the surprise of his life. McGraw had parted with George Burns and the outfield defense had collapsed. Mac scouted around the country for somebody. Nothing was available. Then he hit upon Stengel, over there with the Phillies.

Stengel was a veteran, yes—passing the 30-year mark, but Mac thought that probably "Casey" could fill in occasionally.

Instead of filling in as a substitute Stengel became a regular outfielder with the Giants last season. That isn't all—he was next to Rogers Hornsby and Red Russell in the batting race with an average of .368 for 84 games.

And according to latest advices from the Giants, Stengel is not going to be released. It may turn out that he will be a regular outfielder for McGraw this season with O'Connell and Bentley flanking entirely.

CORNERS MEDAL MARKET

GEORGE T. SMITH

In the little college town of Maryville in the northern part of Missouri there is an athlete who claims to own more gold and silver medals and cups for track work than any other athlete in America.

His claim has not yet been disputed and certainly few youngsters have made such records as this star hurdler and quarter-mile.

His name is George T. Smith and he is a member of the Maryville high school team. In his three years in track he has won 27 gold and silver medals and four loving cups.

He is going to enter this winter the Maryville Normal, a member of the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association, but he would prove a star with a big university track team.

Besides his personal medals, Smith has been anchor man on the relay team, which has won thirteen cups.

OLD TIMER IS HONORED

DELAWARE — After 25 years, C. Summer "Doc" Welch, Columbus, star fullback on the famous 1897 team at Ohio Wesleyan which defeated Ohio State, died Michigan and won an Ohio championship under the coaching of "Hurryup" Yost, has been awarded a "variety" "V" football sweater.

In Welch's day Wesleyan did not give her grid stars sweaters as awards for broken noses and skinned shins. Welch, who has been selected as the "all-time-all Ohio" fullback, is given his award now in recognition of his undergraduate gridiron achievements and his services as an alumni coach during recent years.

RIOT IS PUT DOWN BY CLEVELAND POLICE

CLEVELAND — One man was in city hospital under guard and his three companions were held today, following a riot in front of a Broadway coffee shop Sunday night, when all available police reserves were rushed to the scene.

The riot started when Patrolman George Collier attempted to place Steve Pengass under arrest for disorderly conduct. Three companions attempted to rescue Pengass.

Occupants of the shop and others from nearby places poured into the street and joined in the general milling in front of the shop.

Four flying squads, six emergencies, were dispatched to the scene.

When they arrived Collier had Pengass and his three companions cornered and was standing guard over them.

Within the next ten days some of the best known major league stars will come down for a short boiling out program, prior to reporting to their respective teams.

Several members of the Cleveland team have already arrived on the scene. Reservations have been made by the Yankees and Giants for a number of their veteran players.

The Pittsburgh team will be usual do all its training here. Fred Clarke, when manager of the Pirates was always for Hot Springs as a conditioning place for ball players. Other Pittsburgh managers have followed his tip along that line.

The Boston Red Sox will also do most of their training here. In all probability a number of exhibition games will be staged by the Pirates and Red Sox.

In addition to the medicinal value of the waters, the Ozark mountains offer many great trails that help to condition players by the long hikes of from five to ten miles.

ABOUT SHOWMANSHIP, ART AND RICHARD TULLY

"AFTER all, I'm a showman," he said as I left him, and as the elevator descended I turned the phrase over in my mind and was satisfied that Richard Walton Tully had thus sized himself as briefly and succinctly as he sizes up screen and stage plays," says James W. Dean.

Behind the screen and the footlights Tully bears the reputation of being able to state in 10 words just why a play will or will not be a success.

In his sophomore year, 1900, Tully wrote "A Strangely Life." He still receives $1000 a year in royalties from it. High school and college classes pay him $10 for the right to produce it.

In 1906, with David Belasco, he wrote "The Rose of the Rancho." "Rich lifted Frances Starr to stardom. In 1911 Tully wrote "The Bird of Paradise," which is second only to "Uncle Tom's Cabin," in the number of performances. It has been continuously played until the present year, and the role of Luana served as the first starring appearance of Laurette Taylor, Bessie Barriscale and Lenore Ulrich.

Tully's other plays are "Omar the Tentmaker," "The Flame," "The Masquerader" and "Keep Her Smiling."

The three cardinal points in the show business are Preparation, Production and Presentation, and the greatest of these is Preparation," Tully says. "I took two years to write 'The Bird' and another year to prepare it for production. I produced it. That, I think, is the best answer for the play's popularity."

Tully recently returned from Paris where he filmed many scenes for "Trilby." He engaged Andree La Fayette for the title role. That isn't her real name.

"Names of plays and players mean dollars and cents," Tully said. "I learned that, among many other things, from David Belasco. The showmanship of many of our leaders is based on their training with Belasco."

"Belasco pointed out to me that after dinner someone suggests a show for the evening. The paper is brought in and the list of plays scanned. Finally the finger stops at a title easy to say and the party goes to that performance. The embarrassment of trying to pronounce the more difficult name of a 'worshiper' show was not risked."

Perhaps you know that Viola Dana and Shirley Mason were once "The Rose of the Rancho." Viola and Leona Plurath and that Mary Pickford was once Mary Smith.

Showmanship is largely a matter of experience. In filming "The Masquerader," his first picture, Tully met with problems in double exposure that had not occurred before in the industry. In one episode one man lights a cigar for another. Guy Bates Post played both roles. Drifting smoke presented a difficulty that at first seemed insurmountable. In cutting the film the stream of smoke would end abruptly. If photographed in reverse the current of smoke would move in the wrong direction. Tully called in Wilfrid Buckland, art director and a veteran showman. Buckland wrapped a little cigar in cigar paper. No smoke curled up from the little cigar, as it would have done from a cigar.

So you see, a showman is something more than a man who ballyhooes a sideshow.

"The Voice From the Minaret," Norma's Best

THE combination of Norma Talmadge, Eugene O'Brien and Robert Hichea's drama of the Orient is proof enough of the high caliber of the production. "The Voice From the Minaret" being offered at the Sigma theatre for the entire week. There probably are no two stars in the cinema world who have caused such a great sensation as have these "two perfect lovers of the screen."

The action of the tale is laid in London, Bombay, Damascus, and the desert. The story is a colorfully romantic one, swiftly moving, and nothing has been left undone to make this Norma Talmadge's greatest picture.

Because of the brutal treatment of her husband, Lady Ardienne is forced to leave him and it was on her way to England that she became acquainted with Andrew Fabian, a young Englishman, who is on a pilgrimage to the Holy Land. He induces her to change her plans and accompany him.

Their travels brought them to Damascus, where the customs of hundreds of years ago still, lived, and five times a day the muezzin, standing on the parapet of the minaret, called to the faithful to pray. It was in this city that the youth and the girl were made to face the stern realization. The voice from the minaret, monotonously intoning the command to worship, seared their souls. To them it meant the end of their romance for it reminded them that they were not free to live—that one was still a slave and the other was fitting himself for the clergy.

Regrettably, they turned back, she to her husband and the men to continue his religious work. A series of highly dramatic adventures that nearly bring an end to their lives follow and there is a happy ending, which you will all enjoy. "The Voice From the Minaret" is proof of the rapid strides being made in the cinematographic art. It is replete with dramatic situations that will hold you spellbound, beautiful settings and a fine cast—all that go to make up a truly fine picture.

Keith Acts Please Faurot Patrons

THE Faurot's offering of five Keith acts proved very entertaining to patrons who witnessed the three performances yesterday. It was a bit different from the usual run of singing and dancing which has been a feature of the bills for the past few weeks.

Birdland Follies moved quite a sensation and if you have never seen trained birds this is an opportunity you should not miss. There are parrots, cockatoos, birds of paradise and birds from every clime and of every species who do very seemingly impossible things. Their best stunts are acrobatic ones and they do some truly marvelous things—for birds.

Ed and Wyn offer a comedy novelty that is truly clever, both having lovely personalities and a "good line." They render several vocal numbers that are decidedly entertaining and quite humorous.

Many Favorites Seen In "Night Life In Hollywood"

NIGHT Life in Hollywood, which opened yesterday for a three day attraction at the Lyric theatre combines in an unusual degree tense drama and real humor, plus an assortment of unusual and sensational scenes which are in themselves sufficient to insure an unqualified success for the production.

The story tells what befalls a small town boy who runs away from home to taste the joys of what he has been led to believe was a modern Babylon—a communally unbridled and sensual, forgetting all also in the mad pursuit of pleasure. What he finds when he arrives in the motion picture capitol of the world—the adventures that come to him—the mishaps in which he becomes involved—pass a story as enthralling as it is unusual.

There are beautiful girls galore in "Night Life in Hollywood," there are scenes of lavish splendor and a superb cast, which includes such well known favorites as J. Frank Glendon, Josephine Hill and Gale Henry, while the picture introduces intimate

Bill House a Laugh Riot at New Orpheum

FROM the rise of the curtain to the drop New Orpheum patrons will be offered laughs galore by that premiere of all comedians, Bill House and one of the best comedians seen at the Market play house for a long time. "Nothing But the Truth" is the name of the present vehicle and it starts with a $10,000 wager by the comedian who is investing the money for his sweetheart, the wager being that he must not tell a lie for 24 hours. This starts the comedy and it is one laugh after another.

A trio composed of three of the

Quilna Offers "Trifling Women"

UNUSUAL in its theme is the most recent Rex Ingram production, "Trifling Women," starring Ramon Novarro, Barbara La Marr and Lewis Stone. Young Novarro, who leaped to instant fame by his remarkable portrayal of Ruric of Hontzau in "The Prisoner of Zenda," has many more opportunities in this new picture and challenges tuesday to a close race for future popularity.

The story is a story told a young girl by her father, which points out the ill fortune and disaster that a trifling woman may cause. It deals with a duke and his son who are both in love with a beautiful clairvoyant of Paris. She professes her love for the younger man and knowing this the duke plans to separate them by insisting that his son enlist which he does. In the meantime the woman falls for a wealthy widower and again the duke is out of the game. He arranges a dinner for the couple and the poison which the duke intended for the widower, is taken by himself. Madame Zarda and the widower are married and many thrilling events follow, when the young son of the duke returns. The story as told by the father makes the girl realize her mistake and there is a happy ending, of course. "Trifling Women" is very entertaining and altho very much out of the ordinary, will be enjoyed by all.

LINCOLN had his yesterdays of mistake, failure, defeat, as well as of triumph; so have all of us

The source of his confidence in tomorrow was a cheerfulness about yesterday We may have to correct its errors today or tomorrow; but we don't have to repeat them

We may be in some uncertainty as to the future of the world, or our country, or state or city, or ourselves But uncertainty of events to come need not produce uncertainty of our own courage

BIG SPRING TRADE PROMISED

Cheerful Forecast is Made by Secretary Mellon

MANY OTHERS OPTIMISTIC

Bright Prospects Held Out From Numerous Sources

(BY E. C. FORBES)

NEW YORK. (Special) — We are having a fresh outburst of cheerfulness. Judge Gary set the example and now every day brings exuberant statements from high and not-so-high alike.

Secretary Mellon promises delightful spring trade.

Julius H. Barnes indicates that we are going to proceed regardless of either quarrelling or peace-making in Europe.

Let's hope they are all right in their glowing forecasts.

The public loves to lambast "Wall Street" for taking a "takeoff" for floating issues of new securities.

But how many enterprises of importance have ever been able to raise capital successfully by letting loose an army of stock peddlers?

Frankly, not one comes into my mind at the moment. But I do have in my mind instances after instance where projects thus financed came to grief. Indeed, we have had several notable cases during the last few months.

Individuals or enterprises able to command scant credit have to pay dearly for funds whether they raise them in Wall Street or by buttonholing unsophisticated workers and others and guilting them with all sorts of figures and promises.

"New Haven Railroad insures 7,000 employees."

So says a newspaper headline.

Will it now proceed to insure dividends for its long-suffering stockholders?

In analyzing the careers of men who have attained conspicuous success in the business or financial world I have noticed that a very large percentage of them made an unusual mark, or did something out of the ordinary, very early in life.

Louis K. Liggett, now head of the biggest drug business in the world, attracted attention as soon as he started as a salesman in Detroit when he was only fourteen.

A dry goods house gave him some samples of material which was dead stock and out of style. The firm put this job over on him because he was just a kid.

He went to the unconscious of the situation, believing that his opportunity had come. He threw the job back on the firm by selling all they had and asked them to order more. He found an outlet for this apparently worthless merchandise right under their nose.

He proceeded to blossom out as one of the greatest salesmen this country has ever known. He did what the other fellow says can't be done.

Almost every learned dissertation on this, that and the other problem confronting America ends up with the declaration that greater enlightenment and education are needed to set matters right.

One man who is doing more than usual of this needed work is Francis H. Sisson, Vice President of the Guaranty Trust Co. of New York.

Mr. Sisson is both a sound economist and an effective speaker. He earned his living long enough outside of Wall Street to be able to take a detached view of Wall Street and all its works.

Recently Mr. Sisson talked to a large gathering of Iowa editors. His theme was the oft-quoted observation of Josh Billings that "the trouble with the American people is not so much their ignorance as the tremendous number of things they know that ain't so."

Some of the popularly-beloved things that "ain't so" discussed by Mr. Sisson were that railroad stocks are watered; that the Federal Reserve board was responsible for the deflation in commodity prices in 1920 and 1921; that the United States is maintaining an isolated position in world affairs; that Wall Street dictates money or credit conditions; that capitalism is responsible for economic and social ills; that a high tariff assures any real protection to American labor; that fiat credit or currency can aid to the wealth of the nation; that the power of any class or section can be permanently furthered at the expense of the general interest.

Mr. Sisson finished up by telling the editors that a steady, healthy improvement in general business rather than a boom, is what we can count upon.

SLANG PHRASES ARE EXPLAINED FOR THE BENEFIT OF ENGLISH

LONDON. — (United Press) — "Dogsone!" "Heck!" "Saphead!" "Dumbbell!"

One couldn't expect a Britisher to understand these Americanizations of his mother tongue.

So the English edition of Sinclair Lewis' realistic interpretation of the American city, "Babbitt," contains a translation of the more vulgar terms.

Hugh Walpole, English novelist, wrote the introduction urging the British not to see the characters as "too ugly" and furnishing a glossary to interpret the slang of Lewis' characters. Some of the interpretations of the American vernacular into the British follows:

"Dogsone"—puritanical euphemism for damn.

"Heck"—a vulgarism for Hecuba, a New England deity.

"Saphead"—having water on the brain.

"Dumbbell"—a silent fool.

"Bat"—a spree.

"Footlegging"—illegal trading in drink, the drink usually in a boot.

"Bulldoze"—to bully with softness.

"Dog"—side.

"Dub"—a fool.

"Phiver"—a cheap motor car of delicate build.

"Ice cream soda"—a ghastly hot weather temperance drink.

"The Kappa"—numerous college societies.

"Prof"—middle-western for professor.

"Queen"—a respectable woman.

"Razz for fair"—the heavy censorship.

"Regular fellow"—orthodox business man.

"Tur"—American for dinner jacket.

"Wisenheimer"—a well-informed man of the world.

"Where you get off"—where you are making a mistake.

"Square"—middle-western for square meal.

GOES TO SENDING END OF LAW

Becoming Attorney His Biggest Step, Says H. L. Conn

COLUMBUS. — (Associated Press) — H. L. Conn, Van Wert, new state superintendent of insurance, took his biggest step in life, he says, when he went from the "receiving to the sending end" of the law business.

From court stenographer, he became an attorney. That was nearly a quarter of a century ago.

For the last 15 years, he has specialized in insurance law, which, he said, has grown to be one of the most important branches of legal profession.

"The insurance business is a tremendous thing," Mr. Conn declared. "Its vastness is not known. Few people realize the amount of money held by the great insurance companies. The figures are staggering."

Born in Van Wert, Mr. Conn has spent his life there, practicing law in that city for the last 23 years. He is a member of the legal firm of Conn, Hoke and Wright. He was prosecutor of Van Wert for two terms, and in 1920 was the Democratic nominee for judge of the court of appeals, being defeated in the Republican landslide of that year. He was a delegate to the national democratic convention at San Francisco in the interest of former Governor Cox.

He resigned directorships in several insurance companies, as required by law, when he took the office of state superintendent of insurance. He had been a director and general counsel of a Van Wert insurance company, a company, which, he said, was the largest in the state.

He is vice president of the First National Bank of Van Wert, and permanent chairman of the March of Dimes, a fund for the relief of children with physical defects.

According to Mr. Conn, Ohio is fourth among the states in the underwriting business. New York comes first, then Illinois, then Massachusetts, and Ohio.

SHORT SHAVINGS

Column of Anecdotes About Home Folks

What is the funniest experience that ever happened to you? Write it out briefly and send it to the Short Shavings Editor of The Lima News. For the best contributed Short Shavings published in the week The News will pay $1. Full names and addresses must be signed.

Clara Temple, of Sidney, writes that she visited St. Mary's one day on the Interurban car.

I was met by a short woman, (I am very tall) who pulled my head down and kissed me. I did not know the woman. I tried to tell her that she had made a mistake.

"Why, your name is Pence, isn't it?" she asked. When assured it was not, she vanished in confusion, after releasing my suit case. A little later I noticed her walking away with another tall girl.

Mrs. Ida Justice, 216 N. Elizabeth-st., relates that her little son, aged four, was visiting at the home of his grandmother. Inquiry came up as to what name was to be given his little baby sister, whether it would be Susan, Martha or Catherine.

The boy quickly answered, "I don't like cat friends."

Little Lucille Hoin, 350 Chestnut-pl., aged four, was watching a coal man unloading fuel. She noticed the bling on the horse's bridle.

She exclaimed, "O mamma, come here and see the horse with pocket books hanging on its ears!"

Mrs. Edward May, 847 Belmont-ave., tells that several years ago while she was residing in Springfield, a man passing her home fell to the sidewalk, in a fit.

She hurriedly called an ambulance, but before the conveyance arrived, the man revived and said, "Don't let them take me to the hospital. I have already had my appendix removed three times on similar occasions."

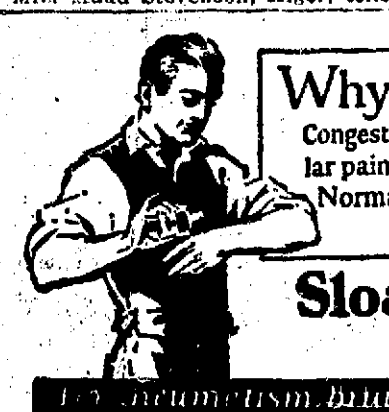

Ethel Arras, Lima R. D. 7, tells that one evening Johnny could not go to his examination, for he called his father and told him the teacher had said something about finding the great common divisor.

His dad was not well educated and said "disgust." "Great Scott, haven't they found that thing yet? Why, they were hunting for it when I was a boy."

Little Paul's Sunday school teacher was explaining to her class of boys how Christ turned water into wine. Mrs. Nina Smith, Lima R. D. 6, relates.

When she had completed her explanation Paul said, "Gee, God hasn't anything on my dad. Our cellar is so full of wine barrels you can't walk between them."

A. E. Brandes, 328 N. Elizabeth-st., relates that Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baker, 219 N. Jameson-ave., recently were entertained by a crowd of 13 of their friends, which they assert was an unlucky number for them, as the crowd ordered refreshments sent C. O. D., with war tax and express charges of 75 cents.

Why strains hurt that her niece, whose father is very short and stout, was trying to get her little brother to go to sleep one afternoon.

She told him if he would sleep he would grow big and tall. The boy asked if she had slept when she was little. She said, "Yes, that is why I am so tall."

Then he asked, "My goodness, didn't dad ever sleep?"

Charles R. Reese, Lima R. D. 7, writes:

"Some years ago Scott Neely and Henry Cheyney lived on adjoining farms. An old rail fence separated the two tracts. Cheyney owned a two year old colt that persisted in jumping over the fence onto the Neely farm."

"The neighbors united in an effort to break the colt's bad habit. They increased the height of the fence to 12 rails. Just as they finished this job, they saw the colt approaching with his head thru the rungs of a ladder, a situation it had gotten into accidentally as the ladder stood against the barn."

"It's no use," Cheyney said to Neely. "We can't have that colt. It is going to climb over on a ladder."

Rowena Zarbe, 539 E. Kibby-st., tells that one evening her elder sister was expecting a caller and that she had told her little sister to go to the doctor to tell the young man she was not at home.

"When the man arrived, the child opened the door and said, 'Sister told me to tell you that she is not at home—but she is.'"

Miss Margaret Verhoff, 927 Richmond-ave., makes this offering to the column of anecdotes about home folks:

"One day a little girl came over to visit us. Evidently she had been instructed by her mother that if she was invited to remain for a meal she should say, 'No, thank you, I have already dined.'"

"At about 6 o'clock I asked her to sit down and eat a bit with the family. The child said, 'No, thank you, I have already bitten.'"

Mrs. Alva Grubbs, 717 St. John-av., relates an incident at the home of a neighbor.

The mother was getting her little son ready to send to Sunday school. She said, "Wait, dear and I'll get you your penny."

The wise little chap looked up, placed his hands in his pockets and said, "Mother, can't you have a nickel? I have been taking pennies to Sunday school ever since the day I was born."

Emerson Arganbright, 728 Brier-av., writes:

"This may not be appropriate for a 'Shaving,' but I notice a sign in a drug store window with this inscription, '2th paste and 2th brushes for sale.'"

Mrs. William Mercer, 330 S. Woodlawn-av., relates that when women sold pieces of lead as weights in the bottoms of their coat suits, her little son, aged four, one day discovered one of the pieces of heavy metal sewed in her suit.

He said, "Now mother, I know where you hide your money."

Mrs. D. A. Long, 824 S. Broadway, tells that when she was a little girl at home, her little brother was sitting one night beside the table, reading a book.

"About the time he was getting interested, I accidentally interposed my hand between the book and the lamp, shutting off the light," Mrs. Long continues.

"Turning around with an angry look on his face, my brother said, 'Get out of the sun!' But I didn't get son-struck," she adds.

W. A. Snyder, of Cairo, dropped in to tell that a bill of lading calling for a certain number of head of livestock doesn't always pan out as expected.

In proof, he relates that last week a carload of cattle, assembled by J. A. Vore, manager of the farmers' elevator at Cairo, was shipped out on Tuesday. A cow purchased from Jesse Leidy, a farmer, was included in the lot. Several days later the cow turned up at the Leidy farm. She had gotten out of the stock pen but had not been missed.

Mrs. J. H. Knoble, Lafayette, tells that some time ago her little grandson, accompanied by his parents, was visiting at her home.

Honey was served at each meal and despite all efforts made to persuade the boy to eat of it, he refused. He was asked by his papa if he liked to visit at the home of his grandmother and whether he enjoyed eating there.

The boy said, "I like Grandma's cats and everything but the jelly the bees made."

Harold Wert, of Cairo, relates that a little boy of his acquaintance, aged five, who had always lived in the city, made his first visit to the country, at his grandfather's home.

His grandfather met him at the train. As they were driving past a field the little fellow saw a cow. He said, "Grandpa, what is that?"

When told that it was a cow, he questioned further, "What are those things on her head?"

After having been informed that they were horns, he seemed satisfied, but just then the cow emitted a loud, low "moo-o-o!"

"Grandpa," said the boy, "when horns did she blow?"

R. A. Baumgart, 527 W. First-st., Delphos, tells that one day while he was in a candy store and ice cream parlor, a young couple came in.

The clerk asked the girl what she would have.

"Oh, I'm not particular," she said.

The clerk turned to the young man and asked his want.

"I'll take the same," he replied. "What does it cost?"

Hair Often Ruined
By Careless Washing

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for your hair is Mul-sified coconut oil shampoo (which is pure and grassless), and is better than anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mul-sified coconut oil shampoo at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.
